

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE LIBRARY.

INFORMATION AND SUGGESTIONS

PREPARED BY THE

COMMITTEE ON LITERATURE AND ART.

The arrangement of the Library, which now comprises nearly 10,600 volumes, is according to the "Dewey system of decimal classification." This divides the field of knowledge into nine main classes: 1, Philosophy; 2, Religion; 3, Sociology; 4, Philology; 5, Natural Science; 6, Useful Arts; 7, Fine Arts; 8, Literature; 9, History; while encyclopædias, periodicals, etc., so general in character as to belong to none of these classes, are marked nought, and form a tenth class—0, General Works.

"These special classes or libraries are then considered independently, and each one is separated again into nine special divisions of the main subject, numbered from 1 to 9, as were the classes, general works belonging to no division having nought in place of the division number. A third division is then made by separating each of these divisions into ten sections, numbered in the same way with 0 and the nine digits; and this decimal subdivision is repeated till it secures as many sub-sections as may be needed in any topic. Thus, '513' is the third section (Geometry) of the first division (Mathematics) of the fifth class (Natural Science). This number, giving class, division and section (also sub-section, if any), is called the classification or the class-number, and is applied to every book and pamphlet belonging to the Library. All geometries are thus numbered 513, all mineralogies 549, and so, throughout the Library, all books on any given subject bear the number of that subject in the scheme.

“Where 0 occurs in a class number, it has its normal zero value. Thus, a book numbered 510 is class 5, division 1, but no section—i. e., the book treats of division 51 (Mathematics) in general, and is limited to no one section; 500 indicates a treatise on science in general, limited to no division. A nought occurring in the first place shows in the same way that the book is limited to no class—e. g., 030 is a general encyclopædia which treats of all nine classes.

“Wherever practicable, heads have been so arranged that each subject has been preceded and followed by the most nearly allied subjects—e. g., Building (690) follows Mechanic Trades (680) at the end of Useful Arts, and Architecture follows at the beginning of Fine Arts. The student of Biology (570) finds fossil life, or Paleontology (560), before, and vegetable life, or Botany (580), after; this followed in turn by animal life, or Zoölogy (590), ending with Mammals (599); while Useful Arts (600) begin with Human Anatomy (611) under Medicine, thus giving a regular growth from the fossil plant through the vegetable and animal kingdoms to the living man.”

The “summary of divisions,” reprinted upon the opposite page, exhibits an outline of the scheme. The highest class-number is thus shown to be 999; and, though every class number may be extended indefinitely by decimals, the relative position of any book in the Library can be found by following the shelf number from 010 to 990.

Modern.

Whoever searches for a book by its class-number should always bear in mind that only a very small proportion of these numbers as used in the card catalogue are actually shown upon the shelves. Enough only are shown there to serve as "leaders" in drawing the eye somewhat near to the place where the desired book is to be sought. A class-number, even when extended by two or three figures in decimals, indicates merely the approximate position of a book, but never pretends to specify its exact position. Thus, the Library has 170 volumes of general or collected Biography (920), which are ranged along a dozen shelves, but which are all marked 920; following these are five shelves containing 100 volumes of "lives of chief rulers," whose class-number is 923.1; but this is subdivided so that the 27 volumes devoted to the "chief rulers of England" are all numbered 923.142; the 36 volumes devoted to the "chief rulers of France" are all numbered 923.144, and the 30 volumes devoted to the "Presidents of the United States" are all numbered 923.173. Then there are 140 later volumes of the 923 class, variously subdivided by the decimals 2 to 9; and when we reach 929, the last class under Biography, we shall have found a total of 600 volumes, extending along the shelves of six sections, but all of them assigned to one or the other of ten numbers with certain decimal additions.

As above shown, quite a wide range of locality may be allowed in shelving any book under this "relative classification system," even when the system is strictly applied; but the present Library is so cramped for want of space that some modifications of the system are compulsory. Hence, the searcher for any given class-number, who cannot find his book on any of the shelves between those labeled with lower and higher numbers, should look for it on the adjacent shelves (where it may have been crowded temporarily to await proper rearrangement), or he should look for it on the tables (where newly-purchased books are usually stored a month or more), or he should look for a posted notice saying that books with certain class numbers regularly belonging there have been shelved in some other specified section of the Library.

The present distribution is as follows : Nos. 010 to 599 are in middle room (except 080 to 339) ; Nos. 600 to 899 are in east room ; Nos. 900 to 999 are in west room (also 080 to 339) ; and the bound periodicals are in the third story front room. The volumes in each of the four rooms (as counted July 25, 1893) are shown in succession by the following figures : 2870, 2054, 3075, 1717 ; while the case in the hallway contains 137 volumes of the Annual Register (1757-1891). The combination of these figures shows a total of 9,852, which is nearly 700 less than the total registered in the accessions book on that day (10,534) ; but the discrepancy is largely explained by the retirement of duplicates and obsolete editions to the store-room, and by the absence of books at the bindery, so that the percentage of actual loss has been small.

The distribution may be shown in another form, thus :

West Room : 100, Philosophy (145 vols.) ; 200, Religion (167 vols.) ; 390, Sociology, first part (596 vols.) ; and 900, History (1720 vols.). Middle Room : 010 and 030, Bibliography and Cyclopædias (211 vols.) ; 300, Sociology, last part (1,361 vols.) ; 400, Philology (110 vols.) ; and 500, Natural Science (372 vols.). East Room : 600, Useful Arts (284 vols.) ; 700, Fine Arts (442 vols.) ; and 800, Literature (2,358 vols.).

The distribution may be analyzed as follows :

I. WEST ROOM.—The south end is given wholly to “080, Special Libraries,” comprising works whose bulk or height compels a separation from the others. Official records of the War of the Rebellion (nearly 100 vols.) fill the three upper rows ; followed by census reports of 1880 and 1890, and other public documents; while about 60 costly folios on various subjects fill the lowest shelves.

In the south-west corner, the first section is given to Philosophy (100), and the second to Religion (200)—the former comprising books on metaphysics (110), anthropology (130), psychology (150), logic (160), ethics (170) and ancient and modern philosophers (180, 190); while the divisions of "200" which are chiefly represented are natural theology (210), Bible (220), religious history (270) and non-Christian religions, including mythology (290).

The three sections south of the central window are mostly given to Sociology, including statistics (310) 90 volumes; political science (320), 172 volumes, and political economy (330), 142 volumes. Near the end of this third section, however, a beginning is made of the 9th class (History), which comprises all the rest of the books in the room, and ends with the last shelf above the fireplace. "History in General" (900) occupies one shelf, and is followed by general works on geography and travels (910), by antiquities and archæology (913), by travels in Europe (914), Asia (915), Africa (916), North America (917), South America (918), and Oceanica (919), ending at about the middle of the three sections north of the central window. Biography (920), as before described, fills the rest of those three sections; also, the three sections in the north-west corner (613 vols.); and its last division, genealogy and heraldry (929), ends at the top of the first of the three sections between the north windows.

The rest of these central sections on the north contain ancient history (930), 111 volumes; European history (940) 51 volumes; and English history (942), 160 volumes. In the north-east corner are histories of Germany (943), France (944), Italy (945) and the other countries of Europe, Asia, and Africa, extending to 973—the United States, most of the books concerning which (about 200 vols.) are over the fireplace. Histories of Australasia and the Polar regions hold the final numbers in the classification (990 to 999).

It must be noted that books of "military and naval history, and biography" have been withdrawn from the various divisions of the ninth class in the west room, and grouped as a special division (354) in the middle room; also, that lives of sculptors, painters and musicians have been withdrawn from the ninth class and placed in the seventh class (Fine Arts) as 730, 750 and 780, in the east room; also, that Baedeker's guides have been grouped together instead of being assigned to their several countries as catalogued; also that atlases, being too bulky for the shelves containing the other geographical works (910), are kept on a special rack in the hallway, while the large sheet maps, on spring rollers, are in a case attached to the ceiling in the south-west corner of the same; and the globe is in the opposite corner.

II. MIDDLE ROOM.—Beginning with the west side, Bibliography (010) occupies the top shelves of the double section (76 vols.), and below are the general cyclopedias ("030"—comprising ten sets of 135 vols.). There follow 101 vols. on law (340-349), 198 vols. on military and naval history and biography (354), 90 vols. on military science (355), 60 vols. on naval science (359), and 23 vols. on associations and clubs (360). Below these, in the north-west corner, the current editions of about 200 club lists are kept on file, arranged in three groups: "clubs of New York City" (66), "clubs of New York State, outside the city" (28), and "clubs outside New York State" (101). A card catalogue of each group lies beside it on the shelf, and the books of the third group are bunched geographically.

The north-east corner section contains the works on Education (370), including those devoted to colleges and universities (378), and this latter class-number applies also to the special collections of memorabilia of separate colleges, which fill all the shelves of the east side and the first shelves on the south side. These collections are supported by the voluntary contributions of members representing particular colleges, and they are shelved in the order of their size, thus: Harvard, 344 vols.; Yale, 117; Princeton, 51; Columbia, 22; Williams, 21; Hamilton, 20; Amherst, 15; Brown, 11; Bowdoin, 8; University of the South, 7; College of New York, 5. Upwards of 40 leather-bound boxes contain a great variety of pamphlets about the foregoing; and following them are the single books and catalogues of many other American colleges. Altogether, there are 795 vols. in the educational division (370-379).

On the first section of the south side are 38 vols. classed under Commerce (380), and 56 vols. classed under Customs, Costumes and Folk-lore (390-399). This ends the last part of Sociology with a total of 1,361 vols. in this room; while the first part (300-339), in the west room, has 596 vols.

Philology (400) occupies the remainder of the south side east of the doorway, with 110 vols., comprising 40 vols. of dictionaries of the English language (420) and 44 vols. of dictionaries and grammars of foreign languages (430-499).

Natural Science (500) is represented by a total of 372 vols., in the three south-side sections west of the doorway,—the chief subdivisions being as follows: Mathematics and astronomy (510-520), 16 vols.; physics (530), 28; electricity (537), 19; chemistry (540), 13; geology (550), 56; biology (570), 60; botany (580), 20; zoölogy (590), 93. The whole number of volumes in the middle room is 2,054.

III. EAST ROOM.—Beginning with the west side, the first books assigned to Useful Arts (600) are 29 vols. of U. S. reports on the international expositions of 1867, '73, '76, '78 and '89, and 9 vols. of dictionaries on mechanic arts and mining. Medicine (610) follows, with 133 vols. ; engineering (620), with 84 vols., mostly reports ; agriculture (630), with 15 vols., and domestic animals (636), with 14 vols.

Class 700, Fine Arts, begins in the section beyond the fireplace, and the general works comprise 108 vols. ; followed by architecture (720), 23 vols. ; sculpture (730), 34 vols. ; drawing (740), 6 vols. ; painting (750), 73 vols. ; engraving (760), 17 vols. ; music (780), 21 vols. ; and amusements (790), 160 vols. The last named are to be found in the north-east corner, and comprise books about the stage (22 vols.), games of skill and chance (35 vols., many of them kept in the card room), outdoor sports, boating, ball, horsemanship, fishing, hunting and shooting. The Badminton library of sports (21 vols.) is shelved in this corner.

The rest of the room is assigned to Literature proper (2,358 vols.) ; the class-numbers extending along its east side (800 to 823), then along the east side of the new central stack (823 to 839), then along the west side of this stack (840 to 879), then along the south side of the room (880 to 899). The first section comprises literary dictionaries, collected quotations, histories of literature in general and of American literature (64 vols.) ; also American poetry (72 vols.). The next section (813-814) comprises 90 vols. of American fiction and 58 vols. of American essays. American oratory, humor and miscellany (52 vols.) are on the upper shelves of the third section ; while below are 22 vols. of general works on English literature, and the first part of English poetry (821), which extends to the end of the fourth section ; 236 vols. English drama (822) occupies a good share of the last two sections of the east side, with 177 vols., the final shelves being filled with 109 vols. of early English fiction (823).

Thackeray, Dickens and other recent English novelists supply 196 vols. to the first two sections of the central stack ; and the rest of the second section is given to 134 vols. of English essays (824). English oratory, letters, satire and miscellany (825 to 828) are represented in the next section by 118 vols.; and the last section contains 138 vols. of German literature (830 to 839).

The west side of the central stack contains the French (840), Italian (850), Spanish (860), and Latin (870) literature, the volumes of each numbering respectively 441, 46, 15 and 188. The French books comprise poetry, 54; drama, 65; fiction, 162; essays, 31; letters, 16; satire, 11; and miscellany, 97. The Latin books fill the last section of the stack. On the south side of the room are 188 vols. of Greek literature (880), and 36 vols. of "minor languages" (890)—Russian, Swedish and Persian. The whole number of volumes in the east room is 3,074.

Sections O and P hold '61 to '78, while '79 to '85 are in the upper row of Q and R, and '86 to '91 are in the lower row. [The 7 vols., Oct.'91—June '93, are in south-west corner of west room, below.]

It should be remembered that A to D are on east side of room, E to H on south side, I to N on west side and O to R on east side. In the alphabetical list of periodicals printed on a later page, these section-letters are used again, to show the position of the bound volumes.

THE CARD CATALOGUE.

This is contained in a series of 48 drawers, sliding in two cases, which stand on each side of the central window of the middle room, and which are supplied with special electric lamps for night usage. The drawers of each case are labeled from A to Z, and every book in the Library is represented in each case by at least one card. The case on the left hand contains the "author catalogue," which is a single alphabetical index to all the authors, editors and translators, whose works are here. Each author's books are entered on successive cards having his name at the top,—the titles being usually alphabetized by the leading word, though translations and less important works are often entered last. Each name which projects above the level of the cards is designed for a "leader," to show the progress of the alphabet, and the limit of the cards bearing that name is marked in blue. A red numeral in the upper corner of each card indicates the approximate position upon the shelves of the designated volume. When the searcher for any special book knows the name of the producer of it, he should look for the same in the "author catalogue," which comprises about 7,000 cards; but a book written about an author is entered under his name only in the "subject catalogue."

The "subject catalogue" is designed to supplement the main index to authors. It is contained in the case at the right of the window, and comprises about 15,000 cards. It affords an alphabetical index to the first significant word in the title of each book here, and also exhibits groups of works on specified subjects, alphabetized by authors. A blue card marks the end of each of these groups, and is followed by the title ranking next in alphabetical order to the title of the group. Thus, the title "Aids to reflection" is the first one after the blue card marking the end of "Agriculture"; and the 37 cards devoted to the latter title can all be skipped at once by the searcher for "Aids."

Author-lists of accessions are posted from time to time at the entrance to the Library; and books are often named in these lists before their insertion in the catalogue, though the general rule is to get all cards written and entered within a few days after the books arrive. New books are usually allowed to lie upon the tables for a month or more, and should be looked for there when not found upon the shelves to which the catalogue assigns them. The addition of new volumes to existing series is not always promptly indicated in the catalogue; so that the series itself had best be examined before the searcher assumes that the unmentioned latest issues have failed to arrive.

In case it is desired to discover whether the Library contains anything on some subject, when no author or title is known as a guide for searching the card catalogue, reference should be had to a large volume standing upon the librarian's table and labeled "Classification and Index." The first part of this describes in detail the "Dewey system of decimal arrangement," and the last part (pp. 407-593) exhibits a "relative subject index" comprising nearly 20,000 subjects about which books have been written, or may conceivably be written, with a numeral attached to each subject showing its approximate position on the shelves. If the desired book cannot be found in the locality thus indicated, the Library may be presumed not to contain it.

The Club's book-label is pasted inside the front cover of each volume, immediately after its arrival; and upon the label's upper corners are inscribed the "class-number" and the "registry-number" (though this latter was placed on the upper corner of the first page after the title, in the case of the first 9,800 vols.), while the number of catalogue-cards written for the book is shown below. The registry-number marks the chronological place of the volume in the "Accessions catalogue," where are inscribed (on a single line) its author, title, publisher, town, date, size, class-number, number of pages, number of cards, style of binding, source and cost. "Presented" is written instead of the price, in the final column, when the volume is a gift. In every such case the giver's name is inscribed upon the book-label, and a formal acknowledgment of the Club's thanks is mailed to him. A list of these givers is also printed in the annual report, published in March.

·HOURS, CUSTOMS AND REQUESTS.

The librarian is in attendance evenings (except Sundays), usually until midnight. His assistant is on duty daily, from 11 A. M. to 8 P. M., and can generally find any desired book, or answer any ordinary question about the papers and magazines. During the summer evenings, when members frequent the veranda, a waiter is stationed in the hallway to answer their calls; but at other seasons, after 8 P. M., he must be called from the lower hallway, by electric bell. The buttons for these call-bells are adjacent to the east and west doorways of the middle room. At 1 A. M., the electricity is turned off from the three large electric lamps in the ceiling of the west room; and it is turned off from two of them at midnight, if no one is in the room then. The six electric lamps on the tables are movable; and it is expected that any reader or writer who desires the additional light from these will arrange the position of it to suit himself. In the north end of the east room is an electric search-light which may be so carried in the hand that the title of each of the 3,000 volumes stored there can be read without removal from the shelf.

When any written enquiry is left upon the librarian's table by daylight, an answer will be mailed the same evening to any designated address. Sealed communications for the Committee on Literature and Art may also be left on the librarian's table. They will be forwarded at once to the Chairman of the Committee, when inscribed with a request to that effect; otherwise they will be filed for presentation at the next monthly committee-meeting. The same rule applies to unsealed communications, such as recommendations for the purchase of books and the like, which it is desired that the librarian shall read before handing to the Committee.

All members of the Club are invited by the Committee to freely express their opinions concerning what they think would be desirable additions to the Library,—bearing in mind the custom of refraining from the purchase of current fiction. As a sort of substitute for such purchase, the Club pays for the continuous use of nine books from the Mercantile Library (which owns a total of 241,000 vols., as shown in report of April, 1893),—three new books being delivered every Tuesday noon, for a three weeks' stay. Unless an order is sent for some other kind of literature, these three books are recent novels. Members are invited to make known their preference to the librarian at any time, either orally or by memorandum left upon his table; and all such requests are duly mailed to the Mercantile Library, every Monday, at midnight. These nine books are shelved on the atlas rack, in the hallway, alongside the entrance to the east room; and the rule forbidding their removal from the Library is the same as if they were the permanent property of the Club.

When any clerical error is observed upon the bulletin of candidates for membership, the member interested should give a memorandum of the same to the librarian, rather than attempt to personally correct it upon the posted sheet; but all requests for the transfer of names from one list to the other must be addressed to the Secretary of the Committee on Admissions. Attention is called to the rules prescribed by that Committee, as printed at the top of every page in the "candidates' book,"—and especially to the interpretation put upon the italicized line: "Until such entry is made and signed by the proposer and seconder, the name of a candidate shall not be posted." This means that the date of posting shall coincide with the day when the entry is completed, without regard to any earlier date that may have been inscribed along with the candidate's name in the book.

"SILENCE," as a means for promoting the general convenience, is "suggested" by a prominent placard in each room of the Library. The east room is reserved for non-smokers.

THE PERIODICALS AND THEIR PLACES.

The 60 magazines and reviews are ranged along the east wall of the main room, in three racks, five rows deep,—the American ones filling the first rack and part of the second (33), the English filling the last three rows of the second rack (17), while the third and smallest rack holds the French and German reviews, and some college quarterlies, together with a miscellaneous lot of magazines not regularly subscribed for.

Departing somewhat from the alphabetical order, for the sake of bringing the less-read journals next to the wall, the list has been arranged in successive rows, as follows: 1, American law review, American journal of medical sciences, American journal of science, Journal of nervous and mental disease, Gaillard's medical journal; 2, Architectural record, Arena, Atlantic, Century, Cosmopolitan; 3, Eclectic, Educational review, Engineering magazine, Forum, Harper's; 4, Lippincott's, Littell's living age, Magazine of American history, New England magazine, North American; 5, Outing, Overland, Philosophical review, Popular science monthly, Scribner's; 6, United service, University, Yale review, Journal of the Military Service Institution, Proceedings of the Naval Institute; 7, Political science quarterly, Short stories, Current literature, Blackwood's, Contemporary review; 8, Cornhill, Edinburgh review, English illustrated magazine, Fortnightly review, Gentleman's magazine; 9, Longman's, Macmillan's, Mind, New Review, Nineteenth century; 10, Quarterly, Review of reviews, Strand, Temple Bar, Westminster; 11, Deutsche rundschau, Revue des deux mondes, Gazette des beaux-arts; 12, Lecture, Lecture rétrospective, Library journal; 13, College fraternity, Quarterly journal of economics, Harvard graduates' magazine; 14, American journal of Archæology, Petermann's mittheilungen, University extension, Good roads.

The latest two or more issues of each of the foregoing are plainly exposed in the racks; while the issues immediately preceding are mostly contained in 50 book-shaped cases, arranged in six rows below the racks. These cases have hinged backs, prominently labeled in gilt with the names of the magazines, and as their arrangement is strictly alphabetical (American, 29; foreign, 21), it differs somewhat from that of the racks, as above described. Back numbers of those ten recent periodicals for which no cases have yet been procured are piled upon the lowest shelf beneath. There are 22 of these magazines which are regularly sent to the bindery, about two months after the completion of each volume, and there are a few others which are held for possible binding; but most of the back numbers are kept in the storeroom for a year or two, and then given to the hospitals. The time usually required at the bindery is from three to four weeks. Most of the English magazines arrive together on the same day, varying from the 8th to the 12th of each month. The Century, Cosmopolitan, Eclectic and American journal of science come quite regularly on the first day of each month; while the Atlantic, Harper's, Scribner's, Lippincott's, and others arrive from five to ten days in advance of the month. Of Harper's and the Century, two copies are regularly taken.

The south-end table is the depository of 27 illustrated papers, which are spread upon it in the following order:

First row—l'Illustration, l'Illustrazione Italiana, la Ilustracion Española y Americana, Figaro illustré, Illustrated London news, Graphic.

Second row—Ueber land und meer, Gartenlaube, Guten stunde, Revue illustrée, Vie Parisienne.

Fourth row—Harper's weekly, Leslie's illustrated, Once a week, Illustrated American, Puck, Judge, Life.

Front row—Sporting and dramatic news, Vanity fair, Pall Mall budget, Punch.

The middle table also supports five rows of papers,—those upon its east end being arranged as follows :

Army and navy register, Army and navy journal, Army and navy gazette, World (London), National observer, Saturday review, Spectator, Speaker, Truth (London), Public opinion, Critic, Literary world (Boston), Albany law journal, Club.

The two rows upon the west end of the table comprise the American field, Country gentleman, American architect, Garden and forest, Congressional record, Investors' supplement, and the Mail (London), which is the tri-weekly edition of the Times. A row of miscellaneous papers, not subscribed for by the Club, are allowed a place in the middle of the table.

The remaining 31 journals are filed in wooden holders, which are hung on three racks, as follows :

East rack—Fliegenden blätter, Kladderadatsch, Revue bleue, Petit journal pour rire, Journal amusant, Charivari (daily), Figaro (daily), Lancet, Medical news, Medical record, Nature, Science, Scientific American.

Middle rack—Economist, Record and guide, Commercial and financial chronicle, Bradstreet's, Dramatic mirror, Engineering, Engineering and mining journal, Railroad gazette, Electrical review.

West rack—Nation, Notes and queries, Literary world (London), Academy, Athenæum, Forest and stream, Spirit of the times, Field, Turf, field and farm.

There are six rows of shelves standing in the south-east corner of the room, as receptacles for the portfolio files containing the back numbers of 77 of the papers which have been mentioned, and also containing the 32 college journals, which are put in the portfolios as soon as they arrive. The illustrated papers are shelved in the two rows nearest the fire-place,—the German, French, Italian and Spanish at the right hand.

The two rows nearest the corner contain the portfolios of 35 other papers, in alphabetical order (Academy to World); and to the left of these are the 32 college papers, as follows: Amherst student, Bowdoin orient, Brunonian, Columbia spectator, Cornell era, Dartmouth, Hamilton literary monthly, Harvard university bulletin, Harvard advocate, Harvard crimson, Harvard lampoon, Harvard law review, Harvard monthly, Johns Hopkins university circular, Lehigh burr, Pennsylvanian, Princeton college bulletin, Princeton tiger, Princetonian, Nassau literary magazine, R. P. I. polytechnic, Rutgers targum, Trinity tablet, Concordiensis, Wesleyan argus, Williams literary monthly, Williams weekly, Yale alumni weekly, Yale daily news, Yale courant, Yale record, Yale literary magazine.

In the hallway, at the right of the entrance to the middle room, is a rack containing files of these eight New York dailies: Commercial advertiser, Evening post, Herald, Mail and express, Sun, Times, Tribune and World. On the last day of each month, the papers for the first half of that month, are taken from the files and shelved in the storeroom; and on the middle day of the month the same thing is done with the papers for the last half of the previous month. Hence each file always extends backwards from a fortnight to a month. Servants are forbidden to remove any daily paper from its file at the request of a member; and members themselves are desired not to unlock the files. The semi-monthly bundles are kept in the storeroom for at least a year before being thrown away; and they can be consulted at any time on application to the librarian or his assistant. The bound file of the Tribune extends back to January, 1861, and is described on page 42.

Eight other New York dailies are taken here, as shown in the general list; also two from Boston, and one each from New Haven, Providence and London. Sixty-five copies of the city papers are received each Sunday morning; on other days, 42 morning papers and 43 evening papers. All these city dailies, except those on file, are collected for the waste-paper room every night, when the house closes, at 1 A. M.; but, as they are not actually thrown away until several days later, members who may wish to clip from them can usually be accommodated on application to the librarian.

The daily papers, being classed among the general house supplies rather than as literature, are all purchased by the House Committee, and members' applications concerning them should therefore be addressed to that Committee.

INDEX TO PERIODICALS.

In the following alphabetical list of the Club's periodicals (160), the 32 college papers just named are not included. Some twenty repetitions of titles are inserted for convenience of reference. Capital letters indicate sections in the third-story room where bound files of the earlier volumes may be found, as described on pages 40-42. The following abbreviations are used: jo'l., journal; mag., magazine; mo., monthly; quar., quarterly; rev., review.

These 22 pages about the Library are to be reprinted, with additional matter, as "Library Bulletin, No. 1" (500 copies); and, in case the issue proves to be useful, similar compilations may appear annually—perhaps taking the form of "shelf catalogues" or "author catalogues" to particular departments of the Library.
